

1 ABSTRACT

2 The invention provides for a makeup brush for facilitating the 3 application of eyeliner to the upper lashline of the eyes. The 4 brush comprises a tuft of bristles configured in a curved pattern
5 to conform to the contour of the eyelid. The overall width of the 6 brush head, in combination with the curvature of the tuft, provide 7 a brush which facilitates the accurate and natural-looking 8 application of eyeliner. Specifically, the curved design of the 9 bristles of the brush are such that eyeliner may be applied between 10 the lashes of the lashline, rather than merely above or below the 11 lashline.
